SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. HARRISBURG, August 3. - Secretary Kremer, of the commission for the distribu-tion of relief to the Pennsylvania flood sufferes, has had prepared a statement showing the amounts sent to the Governor direct to the 27th of July by the different States, Territories and foreign countries. This exhibit shows an aggregate of $1,088,066 96 to have been forwarded. The amount includes $100,000 contributed through the Mayor of New York by the people or that city. The total contributions, including the amount which passed through the Governor's hands, reach about $3,300,000, of which Pennsylvania has given more than half, only about $79,000 of which the Governor received. One of the most generous contributors is California, which, through different sources, sent to Governor Beaver

A dispatch from Johnstown says: It was with regret that Johnstown people aw Treasurer Thompson leave this morning. The regret was caused by the an-nouncement that he would not be here again until the latter part of next week, owing to pressing business engagements at home. He has lett an efficient man in his place, however, but Johnstowners have learned to look to him with more confidence than any other person in authority, and they would be glad

However, the people were assured the work would be pushed right along, and if it kept up at the same pace as it has been during the past three days the $500,000 appro-priated will all be in the hands of the people by the end of the week. Considerable trouble was experienced to-day with the account of some railroaders who were washed out. They had sworn to their claims, and Mr. J. K. Russell, road foreman of enon the Pennsylvania Railroad, presented them for payment. In the meantime several of the men had lifted their own money, and there was considerable trouble

Notwithstanding the delay caused by these matters, $37,300 was paid out during the day. Secretary Kremer was busy in other parts of the town, and only spent a short time in the office here. He says he is

CAR ROBBERS AT ERIE.

Two Men Arrested With a Quantity Goods Upon Them.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) ERIE, August 3.-The Lake Shore officials in this city have a great deal of trouble with ear robbers. The seals are broken in the yard in this city and the thieves, or a part of the gang, get into the car and ride out to the outskirts of the city where the plunder is thrown out and confederates are ready with wagons to pick up the spoils and cart them off to the fence in the city.

Last evening two crooks were bagged upon suspicion of being the men who opened sev-eral Lake Shore cars night before last. The defendants, who gave their names as Thor Hayes and George Leed, of New York, had in their possession a quantity of furnishing

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. WILLIAMSPORT, August 3.-A wonderful story of the recent flood is related by a lumberman. The other day a gang of men were at work on Burrows' Island removing the logs and boards. As they cleared away the debris they came upon a pile of logs in the shape of a cone at least a dozen feet high. The logs were in such a symmetrical shape that it looked as though they were put together by human hands. The cone was hollow, and as the men proceeded with their work of demolition they detected a smell which suggested that there was a dead animal close at hand. Log after log was re-animal close at hand. Log after log was removed, when, to their amazement, they beheld a mastiff dog. The animal wagged his tail and whined when he saw the men, and seemed gladdened at the prospect of being liberated from his prison.

In another portion of the cone-shaped cell was the careass of a cow. By some freak of the rushing waters the dog and cow were caught in this pen on June 2, the cow being crushed in the jam of logs. The canine was sleek and fat when liberated and looked none the worse for his two months' imprisonment. He has become greatly attached to the men on the island and occasionally takes a meal on the dead cow. ABDUCTED BY HER OWN FATHER. Married Woman Spirited Away From Her Husband's Side.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 READING, August 3 .- A missing woman and the arrest of her father as her to-day has created a big sensacion in this vicinity. About a week ago Mrs. Isaac Mffler, residing near Virginsville, this county, attended a funeral in the neighborhood. Her father, Samuel D. Kohler, who is proprietor of a natural curiosity known as the Crystal Cave, and one of the best known citizens of Berks county, also attended. After the funeral Mrs. Miller disappeared, and since then she has not been seen. The husband has emhas not been seen. The husband has employed detectives, and the country for miles around has been scoured, but with no success. Streams have been dragged and officials in neighboring cities telegraphed to.

Mr. Miller obtained some evidence against his father-in-law, and to-day Kohler was arrested and gave bail to answer the charge of abduction. He says that he knows where his daughter is, but refuses to disclose her whereabouts. Mrs. Miller is 27 years of age, and has been married several years. She possesses about $8,000 in her own name. and it is claimed that there is the bone of conpossesses about $8,000 in her own name, and it is claimed that there is the bone of con-tention. Mrs. Miller has always resided with her husband, and there is much specu-lation as to where the father has her hidden

William Bates, son of W. B. Bates, forewilliam Bates, son of W. B. Bates, fore-man of the ship carpenters at the Anchor Line dock, suicided to-day. He had been in ill health, but the generally accepted theory of the causes which led to his suicide was that his affianced would not consent to a speedy marriage. Young Bates called on his affianced, Miss Clara Schlandecker, last evening, and renewed his importanities for an early marriage. stend of Dredging. SEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. ERIE, PA., August 3 .- The United States Government is making some experiments here with dredging machinery, which are being watched with more than ordinary interest. The engineer in charge of this port is furnished with a sand pump for dredging purposes and it is known as a sand sucker and is stationed upon the deck of a leased steamer, the Transfer. This has always been a hobby of Major F. A. Mahan, the superintendent of this district. He has advocated for some time the theory that it was more expeditious and more economical to nump the sand than to theory that it was more expeditious and more economical to pump the sand than to dredge it by the old process.

Before securing all the machinery necessary for such work the officials in charge fitted up the leased boat for a test of the Major's plans. The tests thus far have been pronounced quite satisfactory. The dredge has raised 75 cubic yards of sand an hour, an amount which is just about half of the capacity of the machinery.

to her husband's large appetite, was astonished at the amount he consumed and made a mental inventory of the various articles and the amount of each that he swallowed.
The next afternoon Deacon Elisha Pratt

other four officiated at the church and by the grave.

The widow was inconsolable for awhile and talked about the tribute she proposed having prepared in memory of her husband. Everybody supposed she was going to erect a handsome monument and the makers of tombstones sent in bids. But they were all mistaken. Mrs. Pratt had in view the most remarkable and yet suggestive of memorials. She had the work done quietly in Philadelphia and it required some weeks to finish it.

Paper Mills. The governor refused to act and the fly wheel burst. The explosion was terrific. The engine house was demolished and the flying fragments carried rain in all directions. Engineer Samuel Fuller, observing something wrong, rushed into the wreck to shut off the steam and was so badly mutilated that he will die. Joseph Proeski was struck with a piece of the wheel and had a part of his scalp carried away. His recovery is doubtful.

When it arrived at the farm and some of the widow's intimate friends were invited to call and see the tribute they were at first astounded and then shocked, and finally they felt a disposition to laugh that was controlled with difficulty. On the table in the parlor stood a large glass case. On top of the case was a small arch, made of solid silver. Surmounting the arch was the figure, in silver, of an angel blowing a trumpet. Inside the arch and suspended from its center was a tablet of white marble, on which were inscribed the following words in deep, awaited the spectators. There on plates, arranged in the order they were served, were exact duplicates in wax, and some in glace shape, of the various articles of food the descon had eaten at the dinner the evening before he died, and also exact duplicates in deacon had eaten at the dinner the evening before he died, and also exact duplicates in quantity and sixe of the amounts he had consumed. There was a large plate of soup, a big slice of meat, heaping side dishes full of vegetables, three cucumbers, huge slices of pie, a quarter of a watermelon, two plates of ice cream, a small cup of coffee and three goblets of cider. They were perfect piecess of work in wax, as well as perfect representations of what had passed down the deacon's throat at the dinner. The whole thing had cost several hundred dollars.

The neighbors naturally ridiculed the tribute at first, but they all respected the widow, and when they found that she was really in earnest in her grief and in her regard for the wax memorial, they restrained their mirth and said little about it outside. Many of them thought the sudden loss had unhinged Mrs. Pratt's mind somewhat. That is why it is only after the lapse of a year that the report of the astonishing tribute has leaked out.
